Introduction: In Transform World 2020, we have been moving toward a committed core with principles of mission as transformation as the building blocks. From the time of the launch of the second phase of the Transform World Movement we have measured advance toward our goal using the following five challenge-response factors.

TW2020 Moving Toward a Committed Core: The base of a movement in today's world is a committed core of people, who trust and respect one another and apply their gifts and creativity to God's common existential calling on their lives. There will always be movement of people into and out of the motivational and empowering circle because of very permeable, shifting, and porous boundaries. Diversity of gifts, experience, and background within the core provide a necessary flexibility to keep renewal going. This diversity must be protected and nurtured as the natural tendency of the core is to homogenize.

PRINCIPLES OF MISSION AS TRANSFORMATION

Building process to achieve the vision for transformation in response to the challenges before us:

RELATIONAL

Fueling momentum for ministry through loving relationships. Reconciling, forming, and developing relationships of mutual love, respect, and trust enables leaders to work together for the common good of their community.

PRIORITY

SPIRITUAL

Laying a firm foundation for vibrant ministry through corporate spiritual growth. Experiencing the holiness of God with other leaders results in repentance, humility and a deeper life commitment to Christ and His mission in the world.

VITALITY

COMPELLING VISION

Aligning all transformational efforts by maintaining vision for the completed task. Ongoing clear, compelling and comprehensive vision casting, involving everyone in the project, brings about shared vision, values and strategy, a common language and goals, urgency to act, and a bonded team.

PROVEN PRINCIPLES

THOROUGH RESEARCH

Increasing understanding of the current realities of one's community. If the church wants to be relevant and effective in the community, it needs good information that describes the community's people and need, the condition of the church, and the spiritual forces which influence current reality.

EMPOWERING LEADERSHIP

Identifying leaders and initiating a workable process for community transformation. Empowerment thrives from growing a base of committed leaders and removing barriers which keep them from doing a good job. Effective leaders shepherd people and help put together structures and strategies to carry out God's vision. Strategy results from the prayerful planning of leaders who recognize the activity of God in the community and make the large-scale adjustments needed to join Him in that activity.

INTENTIONAL LEARNING

Maintaining a fresh commitment to the necessary individual and corporate-wide learning, developing needed skills and training in effective ministry models.

LOVING SERVICE

Enacting Spirit-led high-leverage opportunities to minister to the community. Building bridges through acts of service and kindness establishes relationships of trust and credibility with the community. People open their lives to those who genuinely care about personal and community needs and more often will open their hearts to the One who empowers loving service.

Lens#1:1 Ideological Challenge of Islam, Joshua Lingel, Facilitator

1. Crisis in the Culture: There are 1.8 billion Muslims and 900 million Protestant Christians (2.3 billion 'Christians' in the wider Catholic & Orthodox demographics) to reach them with the Gospel. Islam denies the Trinity, deity of Jesus, His eternal Sonship, crucifixion, atoning sacrifice for sins and most Muslims say the Bible is a corrupted book. Muslims don't know that the Bible gives the only and earliest first century eyewitness testimony to Jesus.

   There are two Muslims for every 'born-again' believer. According to Dr. Todd Johnson, with all our gains in world missions, 86% of Muslims (1.55 billion) say they don't know a single Christian. Only 15% of Muslims are in the Middle East or speak Arabic. 85% of Muslims are in regions other than the Middle East. Islam is primarily an Asian religion with 1 billion Muslims in Asia. There is only 1 missionary for every 420,000 Muslims in the world. 38,000 Muslims die without Christ every day. 40% of all non-Christians are Muslims. Globally, nominal Christianity, and lack of accessibility to training, is the main reason Christians do not evangelize Muslims. Jesus asked the church to preach to all nations and creation.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment: Over the past 100 years, Evangelical and Pentecostal movements grew and shifted south. This fact alone has created a new Kingdom culture that transcends national boundaries and unites in Christian eschatological promise of Jesus' victory in the Great Commission (MT 24:14, 28:19-20). 80% of the Christians are now in Asia, Africa & South America:

   - Africa is the largest Evangelical/Protestant Christian continent
   - Asia has significant Christian populations (12-13%).
   - South America is among the largest Christian groups – Spanish #1 & Portuguese fourth largest Christian languages.
   - USA, China (100 million), Nigeria, Ethiopia and Brazil are among the largest Christian populated countries in the world.

3. Catalyst calls for change: Championed by Iman Santoso and Joshua Lingel, Transform World Ideological Challenge (TWIC) & Every Muslim for Christ initiative has been created to mobilize the largest Christian denominations and networks in several countries to evangelize Muslims within those countries.

TWIC estimates over 4.2 million Muslims have become Christians in the past 20 years in more than 94 regions, where 1,000 Muslims have been baptized or 100 churches planted among them (Garrison). According to Dr. Todd Johnson 90,000 Muslims become Christians every year among 45 million Muslim births annually. TWIC is a catalyst among the churches to strengthen the churches and inspire them to finish the task of the great commission.

4. Committed Minority: A committed minority has arisen in many parts of the world, engaged in open discussion, commitment, trust, attention to results and accountability. TWIC partners have worked together with limited resources, to create training resources, overdubed into many languages. They have participated in regional conferences focused on the evangelization of Muslim peoples. TWIC has run conferences in Asia, Africa, South America and the Middle East nations.

TWIC has brought together a combination of trainers, regions (African, Asian, South American & MENA) spheres that otherwise would have little community or place to unify around the challenge of Islam. Of the 200 TWIC participants, many are focused on mobilization and training national churches to evangelize Muslims. Some have thousands of churches planted among them. As of September 2017, TWIC has engaged with leaders in approximately 50 countries and with some of the largest denominations and churches. Representative public voices are heard in national debates with up to 20,000 Muslims in the room with hundreds coming to faith. Several from the TWIC group have many millions hits on YouTube and other training platforms (www.thewadi.org).

Of the estimated five million churches globally, there are not enough missionaries or former Muslims to evangelize the Muslim world. TWIC has begun a process of mobilization of the Presidents and Superintendents of the largest denominations in every country accessible to train churches and evangelize Muslims within 5-10 Kilometers of their local church. One of TWIC's goals is to provide accessibility of training to 80% of the churches in the world. TWIC now has training in thirteen languages that can serve about three billion people. Another goal is to have cooperative councils that focus on Ideological Issues. Some of their members write in academic journals, do online assessments, and teach at universities. Another goal is to provide training for reaching Muslim women and children. Two courses have been recorded and produced with about twenty hours of training from two professors.

5. Convinced Majority: The prayer movement is essential to this challenge as we beseech the Throne. The Prayer Movement (IHOPKC) and the Celebration challenge have been important to the Islamic Ideological Challenge, as only before Christ is there a throne that surpasses nation states and temporary kingdoms, with resources to effect change and send forth laborers. We are one body in Christ. We are sojourners in this world and this world is not our home (Heb. 13:4). We are a suffering church that feels it as we are one body with many parts (1 Cor. 12). We need each other. As mission's leader Ricardo Luna says: "if there was no need for unity in the Church the Muslim world would have been reached with the Gospel already."

Lens #1:2 Family Challenge, Matthew Ling, Facilitator

1. Crisis in the Culture: The global church watches, with great alarm, the escalating demonic activities that destroy the families unceasingly, manifesting in various forms, including the divorce pandemic, the exodus of Christians from their faith in God, the failure of Christian parents in evangelizing the following generations, attempts to redefine marriage, etc.

The Church becomes dysfunctional as Christian members of the families struggle with strained relationships. The breakdown of a marriage, the most intimate of all human relationships and the very foundation of the family, mars the display of the agape kind of love between God and His Body, the Church, to the world. It incapacitates the family from passing the faith from generation to generation. Though scrambling over the years to find ways to stem the tide of family meltdowns in our midst, the results are far from satisfactory for the church. Many leaders worldwide are greatly troubled by the lingering uncertainty as to how much further the church could really hold out in such situation and remain effective as the salt and the light to the world.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment of Challenge and Opportunity

Challenge: God's plan for passing on the faith from one generation to another is primarily via the family. He is very specific in His instructions on how this is to be done (Deuteronomy 6:4-9, 11:13-21, and Ephesians 6:4). Families do not automatically become effective in faith formation of the next generation in the church. Each of them must be intentionally and systematically discipled to do that. The biblical role of the church here is that of the 'Family Discipleship Centre'; equipping the family members (as spouses, parents, children, and faith shapers) 'for works of service' (Ephesians 4:11-13). The global church is still far behind in fulfilling this role.

Opportunity: The global church is increasingly awakened to God's call to fulfil this role as they search for answers to restore the Christian family to their rightful place where they not only live a godly life (including passing on the faith to the following generations), but also have the capacity to be the transformational agent that could significantly impact communities they live it. This is a great opportunity for us. Since the Bali summit, Family Challenge has been focusing on building the capacity of the church (church leadership and congregation) for developing healthy families as a way of life in the corporate body. This includes the following.

- To challenge the church on the purpose, vision, and theological foundations of healthy family-building.
- To train the church on holistic family health development.
- To formulate plans to meet immediate family life felt needs of the local church, including things such as marriage enrichment, parenting, teen promiscuity, divorce, resource management in the home, etc.
- To provide tools that can be used as curriculum for changing the cultures of the corporate church and family. This includes training of church leadership and congregation for change, challenging the married couples to build strong marriages, and developing the parents to proactively disciple their children.

3. Committed Minority: Our Challenge is greatly blessed with…
    - A dedicated team (5 of them) of highly-qualified advisors.
    - Regional teams of leaders. At the forefront of these is the South Asian team that is active in 3 nations in that region with plans to reach out to more countries.

4. Convinced Majority: We have been invited by the World Evangelical Alliance (WEA) to develop family ministry in their global network of churches with 600 million believers worldwide. We are engaged by Compassion International in Asia to build their inhouse capacity to develop family ministry among nearly 1,650 churches in the five Asian nations they serve in. We will launch the National Family Discipleship Conversations Initiative soon involving free family needs survey and three booklets to facilitate the national conversations. We hope to expand our reach to the nations rapidly through this, with the supports of the national alliances of WEA globally.

Lens #1:3 Orphan Challenge: Karmen Friessen, Facilitator

Introduction: WWO is a shining example of how a faithful committed core minority of servants of God, when acting as a catalyst in a Kairos moment of challenge and opportunity in response to a crisis in the culture as has taken place in "the orphan challenge in Ukraine." The fact that, not only the various streams of the church and highest levels of government have embraced and engaged in this mission but even the general populace of the country makes this a compelling example of spiritual-social transformation based on five challenge-response factors that created the dynamic of spiritual-social transformation.

1. Crisis in the culture: In Ukraine, orphans, who, by no fault of their own, were considered the lowest rung on the societal ladder, mere cast-offs to ignore and avoid in the socialist mindset, with the unspoken assumption that the orphans' plight in life had more to do with some defect within them. They typically were recognized as having very little value or worth, due to this supposed defect. Root Causes: poverty, child abuse and neglect, alcohol abuse, and most of all, godlessness – the need for Abba Father.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment of challenge and opportunity when servant catalysts like Steve Weber, Nicolai Kuleba and Ruslan Maliuta launched Ukraine without orphans (UWO). Today we recognize that this was the defining moment for the launch of a God appointed and anointed worldwide movement on behalf of the orphans of the world. "Religion that God our Father accepts as pure and faultless is this: to look after orphans…" (NIV James 1:27a).

3. Catalyst calls for change: Nikolai Kuleba spoke his heart-ache aloud to God in a prayer meeting in the living room of the home of Steve Weber one day in 2008 in one short sentence: "Lord, I want to live in a Ukraine without orphans." Six years later Nicolai was appointed the Commissioner for Children's Rights in Ukraine by the President. "It was beyond all of us," said Steve Weber. But we knew for certain this was what God wanted us to go for."

4. Committed Minority arises concerned about open discussion, commitment, trust, attention to results and accountability which are the essential qualities. This committed minority recognized the importance of strengthening families and community services that would help orphans and vulnerable children remain in, be reunited with, or regain safe, stable and permanent families, so that they could reach their God-given purpose. This is the mission of WWO, not only in Ukraine but in all countries from every region of the world!

5. Convinced majority as they not only became recognized as human beings but championed by the top government leaders including the president of the country and his wife, the leaders of all the denominations and churches in the country leaders, but also the public of the Ukraine on occasion of the annual day of the "the pride of the country award." In that moment the transformation of the mindset of the people of Ukraine toward orphans became evident to all as Evgeniy Isaev, his wife, Svetlana, and their kids, including adopted orphans with the AIDS virus, took to the stage in the Grand Hall, on occasion when the people of the Ukraine gathered to recognize a most inspiring story—not on screen, but in real life. When the emcees revealed the winner of the 2012 "Pride of the Country" award at the end of the evening the attendees erupted in applause and tears.

Conclusion: Reality Check: If we do not address the root causes driving children to orphanages, the number of children living in institutions will INCREASE. This is what happened in Ukraine:

- THE SOBERING TRUTH - From 2000 to 2016, the TOTAL number of children living in orphanages in Ukraine increased from 99,000 to 106,000.
- THE GOOD NEWS -- From 2000 to 2016 there was an 80% reduction in the percent of children living in orphanages who were legal orphans (from 40% to 8%).
- THE BAD NEWS -- From 2000 to 2016, there was a 50% increase in the percent of children living in orphanages who had living parents (from 60% to 92%), this being a function of children whose parental rights had been terminated or whose parents had relinquished them to the state.
- The church is not trained, so the social services in the government, who are open and want to have the church help, can't count on the church to be the help because of this lack of training.
- There needs to be a way to help families with children who are economically unable to provide for themselves to eliminate the escape route in their minds to put their kids temporarily in orphanages when they encounter difficult times. Facts show they stay in the orphanages.
- Most church leaders don't think about their churches being the center for crisis families in their city.
- The need exists for the "spirit of adoption" to be poured out.

Lens #1:4 Poverty Challenge: Khalil Abu Adam, Facilitator

TOWARDS TRANSFORMATION IN HOPE-STAN

1. Crisis in the culture: This province is one of a few dozen in a country that was just emerging from two decades of tribal violence, regional ware and international intervention. Our NGO was able to enter the region after having spent nearly 1 year in the Capitol where we provided medical resources and food for many of the several million residents.

After having gained the appreciation and trust of the government we were asked to go to the province with the highest % of widows and orphans as thousands of their men, from a minority tribe, had been slaughtered over the previous decade. In addition to that pre-natal care and medical supplies were almost nonexistent and indeed the WHO estimated that one mother in seven died in child birth and one child in five did not live long enough to attend school.

Like the whole country, food was not readily available and crop failure common; education for children almost nonexistent, and micro business was destroyed. Water resources were disrupted due to damage from the war. Besides the damage of the war a significant factor in the almost hopeless situation was the fact this was one of the most hated tribes in the country. They were of a different sect of Islam, they looked different from the others and they were known as hard workers.

2. Catalytic/Kairos Moment of Challenge and Opportunity: We took our assignment by the government as from the Lord especially since we had translated much of their language into biblical texts. We had no idea we would be assigned here and did not request it. We sent two men to the area to make an assessment where we learned much about the nature and extent of the crisis in the culture. Besides being animate by the fact that we were going to visit the tribe we did translation for, the two 'Joshua-men' came back with great joy. They had met a young man they now called our 'Man of Peace.' This young man had been wounded in one of the battles and escaped to another nearby country to heal. In the process he joined an NGO run by nationals in that country that helped the rural poor with water technology. Like him, they were Muslim. At night he heard them singing around the campfire. As he listened he noted that they had a strong faith in Jesus. As he witnessed the love and acceptance of these believers he also heard about Jesus and His Word. He became a believer in Christ. The others not only helped him grow but taught him worship songs in his own language and how to study God's Word.

3. Catalyst calls for change: The young man began to get a burden for his tribe and was praying. Then one day he heard his tribe was no longer being killed as the war in their area was finished. So, he took the all-important act of faith and showed up in his home area, not knowing one believer. To his great shock a few weeks later our Joshua Assessment Team met him!!! He got to know them and then finally a few days later asked if they were believers. To everyone's shock the discovered they were brothers in the Lord Jesus. "What a coincidence!!" God's work is so wonderful. We knew the Hand of the Lord was upon them. Our Joshua Team headed back to prepare the rest of our workers to come to the area. We teach poor villages how to use local resources to come out of poverty and become self-sustaining, self-led and self-propagating. In a month as we were getting in gear in the capital we were sent six farmers and their wives!! They had all come to the Lord through the "man of peace" and wanted further training in what we do!! Hardworking and teachable, we eventually hired all six to become trainers for holistic development.

4. Committed Minority arises: Our six farmers returned to their valley and started in four villages clustered near each other. We also sent a nurse who could teach the pregnant women how to have healthy births and babies, and to learn basic community health. Change and hope were in the air. The end of the fighting brought hope and our colleagues brought change! As our workers began to disciple the new believers their hunger for truth and the presence of the Lord was amazing. Sometimes I think poor farmers make such good disciples as they truly must look to God to provide all the time. Then, as the women began learning about prenatal and post-natal health and what the Bible says about women and their value, many became believers and encouraged their families to seek the Lord.

5. Convinced majority: At the end of one year four fellowships, all national led, had been formed in all four villages. By the end of the second year each of these was branching out all over the region. Indeed, after two years the death rate of birthing moms went from 14% down to 0%. The health mothers, improving farms and newly educated children became the talk of the "souk;" market. The demand for discipleship materials was ever increasing. The message was spreading to the whole province, and to the authorities. We knew the mindset of the province was changing and the growing acceptance of the new faith was wonderful, but not without some resistance from the Mullah's. One day I was called into the Governor's office. Normally this is something we don't excited about. Would it be: my visa, jail, a bribe or worse? He brought me in and closed the door. We knew each other, but not that well. He looked at me over his desk, straight into my eyes and said: "Sheikh Khalil, we are shocked that our death rate amongst the birthing women here is down to 0%. We are shocked our people now are getting prospering farms and their children are starting school. But," (I said in my heart 'Here it comes'") "also Sheikh Khalil, we know you are a Christian. We know your workers are starting house meetings all over our district." He stopped and took a breath. I held mine. "But I want you to know Shekh Khalil," he went on, "that our province has been so transformed by your work that I don't care if you have a home meeting in every village of my province." I left that office filled with awe at what God had done.

With the opposition blessing has come. Some believers have been beaten and told to stop by the Mullah's. One of our team was killed in his own home. The former tribe that so oppressed our tribe is using roadblocks and violence to terrorize our tribe. Transformed villages and community leaders are self-sustained and self-propagating. We believe the Kingdom of God will advance transformation such that the tribe that was most persecuted will become the tribe that brings the greatest blessings to their land.

POST SCRIPT: THE ONGOING PROCESS OF TRANSFORMATION

Since that historic year the following has taken place.

- There are hundreds, of fellowships in the province.
- The leadership of government has attended our Policy Institute run in partnership with the Transform World Governance Sphere
- A large school was built for the children and is well attended due to our partnership.
- A reforestation program that includes micro business for farmers growing trees for home construction started that opened many more villages. The government is partnering with us in this program. Believers help lead much of the ongoing village transformation!

- The women's health program has now got two Women's Training Centers that are supported by the government. Both are led by women believers, seeking to bring both help and hope to their province.

Lens #1:5 Justice Challenge – (Re NKo&China)

1. Crisis in the Culture: NKo is currently a society where respect for human rights has yet to exist. The government does not guarantee its people's basic living conditions and is starving them to death and has taken away their freedom to search for ways to survive. A North Korean defector who escaped earlier this year, reveals terror for Christians in the country. It is the number one persecutor of Christians in the world. The Christians endure intense suffering in NKo. Sixty thousand Christians in NKo reported in labor camps per Open Doors World Watch List on October 15, 2018 where they are likely to starve to death. Christians have to meet in secret.

In neighboring China, a recent crackdown on Christianity is part of a broader push by the Chinese President to tighten the Chinese Communist Party's (CCP) control of the people in the nation of China. "China's chilling dictatorship is moving quickly to introduce social scorecards, in which all citizens will be monitored 24/7 and ranked on their behavior." (https://www.news.com.au/technology/online/big-brother-chinas-chilling-dictatorship-moves-to-introduce-scorecards-to-control-everyone/news-story/6c821cbf15378ab0d3eeb3ec3dc98abf)

2. Catalytic/Kairos Moment of Challenge and Opportunity: The Korean Peninsula is living a Kairos moment of grace and important time for action. Recent developments reflect the emergence of new opportunities for dialogue and the resolution of historic differences, and for continued generosity in providing humanitarian assistance to those in need. On 27 April 2018 a third summit took place between South and North Korea with South Korean President, Moon Jae-in, and North Korean leader. In a follow up meeting in September 2018 it was the first time South Korea's president has traveled to Pyongyang.

Meanwhile in China Christians are undergoing a crackdown by the current government administration. The situation has become dire since the government restructured all their departments under the Communist party several months ago and are cracking down on all Christians and the Christian church in China, especially the house churches. Under President

Xi Jinping, believers are seeing their freedoms shrink dramatically even as the country undergoes a religious revival. Over the last several months, local governments across the country have shut down hundreds of private Christian house churches. The new regulation propelled relevant government departments in charge of religion to begin a wave of attack on religion and confrontations throughout the country have since erupted. In many provinces, they are taking down the crosses and burning Bibles.

Ezra Jin, who leads TW2020 8th Challenge – Back to Jerusalem with all nations, pastors Zion Church in Beijing, which is currently the largest church in Beijing and one of the most influential churches in China. Recently he refused local authorities' request to install surveillance cameras inside his house church, police individually questioned hundreds of members of the 1,500-person congregation, he said. The congregants faced veiled threats, Jin said, and many were asked to sign a pledge promising to leave Zion, which the government agents called illegal, politically incorrect and a cult.

On Sunday, September 9, 2018, Beijing Zion Church was shut down by the police authorities. The crackdown was anticipated with Ezra Jin as the point person. After the last service, around four o'clock in the afternoon, the police authorities forcefully evacuated the congregation. There were around thirty policemen on the third floor and around hundred more waiting on the first floor and around the street corner.

According to members of the congregation, there were approximately 30 police and ambulance cars lined on both sides of the street. The authorities required each of the church members to show their ID and give their number and addresses. Anyone who refused to give their ID was taken to two empty public buses and kept there. This is a kairos moment of danger and opportunity.

3. Catalyst calls for change: On August 30, 2018, a group of Chinese Christian pastors and leaders issued a public joint statement titled: A Declaration for the Sake of Christian Faith.[1] This statement lists four main declarations. First was a statement of unwavering faith in God alone and commitment to abide by the teachings of the Bible.

[1] http://www.stcharlesinstitute.org/voices/2018/9/4/198-chinese-christian-leadersand-countingsign-public-joint-statement

Second, the Chinese Christian church of today aligns herself with the historic traditions of Christians who suffered and were martyred for their faith. "When churches refuse to obey evil laws, it does not stem from a political agenda; it does not stem from resentment or hostility; it stems only from the demands of the gospel and from a love for Chinese society."

The third statement speaks of respect and love for the government and Chinese society with the expression of commitment of the churches to pray fervently for their benefit. The public statement concludes that the Chinese Christian churches will not, under any circumstances, join a religious organization controlled by the government nor register with the religious administration department. The leaders of the Chinese Christian churches are ready to "bear all costs."

4. Committed Minority: In both NKo and China there is evidence of a highly committed minority. Since then, there have been five rounds of signatures. Within a few days, many church leaders in China have signed this public joint statement: A Declaration for the Sake of Christian Faith." Through October 14, 2018 the document had been signed by 429 church leaders across the country and the call for signatures remains open.

5. Convinced Majority: Despite all the efforts to quell the Christian faith in China it has been growing. Only the Lord knows how many truly born-again Christians are. Various Christian and secular sources say that there will be more Christians in China than any other country in the world within fifteen years' time.[2]

Lens #1:6 Christ's Missional Challenge: Paul Eshleman, Facilitator

Introduction: TW2020 Christ's Missional Challenge is a shining example of how a faithful committed core minority of servants of God, when acting as a catalyst at a Kairos moment of challenge and opportunity can advance Christ's Missional Challenge.

1. Crisis in the culture: When Christ's Kingdom comes, and His will is done on earth as it is in heaven from a culture in crisis a people groups experiences a transformed community.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment of challenge and opportunity when servant catalysts call for a church for every people among the unreached peoples of the world.

3. Catalyst calls for change: Championed by Paul Eshleman, the call for change came in just three words, "Finish The Task" received from God among friends gathered. FTT is an association of mission agencies and churches who want to see reproducing churches among the unreached peoples of our world.

4. Committed Minority arises concerned about open discussion, commitment, trust, attention to results and accountability. Catalytic partners working together as one body include Finish The Task (FTT), Joshua Project and Unreached Peoples, Issachar Initiative, and Center for the Study of Global Christianity.

5. Convinced majority: As of June 2018, FTT reports from its network that there are 1,580 organizations, denominations, and churches that have made commitments to send full-time workers to Unengaged, Unreached People Groups. 357, of these organizations have sent 29,203 workers to various groups in the last thirteen years. These 4,220 teams of workers have planted 115,507 churches and seen over 2,823,000 new believers raised up.

Lens #1:7. Celebration Challenge: Sue Rowe, Facilitator

1. Crisis in the Culture: With earthquakes shaking foundations of nations, storms of historic proportions, fires and cosmic disturbances, violence and manifestations of lawlessness daily hitting the news, where is the church amid the turbulence? Jesus said, "My House will be called a House of Prayer," Matthew 21:13. Is it today? If it is, why are we in such conflict and turmoil? Today, it is vital for the church to move forward not only in outreach and ministry but in power. The church was birthed and literally empowered through the Holy Spirit in Acts 2 in the Upper Room, a corporate prayer environment and the first New Testament example of a "House of Prayer."

Today, though darkness is increasing, a movement is rising throughout the nations to reclaim the Church's role as a House of Prayer for all Nations and influential force in communities/nations. This is both a local and global movement. From the grassroots of our neighborhoods to the nations, the pressures of this age are turning people back to not only individual but corporate prayer.

The good news is that a remnant is rising. Christians are moving towards action and intentional relationship that is rebirthing the import and impact of "Watchmen" in this hour. The vigor that is reigniting this call to the "Watch" carries characteristics of both committed prayer and community. As a result, committed community in prayer is developing within churches, neighborhoods and connecting into the nations. The watchmen call is emerging as an energizing force for the church and prayer movement as a catalytic agent for revival and transformation.

2. Catalytic/Kairos Moment of Challenge and Opportunity:

The Challenge: There are two key issues that have torn at the heart of the church and even the prayer movement to weaken its foundational and functional identity as a "House of Prayer," Matthew 21:13. The first is the lack of commitment to prayer, which weakens our spiritual strength. The commitment is Jesus first commandment expressed in Matthew 22:37, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind."

The second is that community has weakened with the breakdown of family, and with denominational divisions. This is expressed in the 2nd great commandment when Jesus said, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." On these two commandments, Jesus stated, "Hang all the Law and the Prophets," (Matthew 22:40). The breakdown of these great commandments results in a weakening of the church. The weakening of the Church, in turn, leads to an increase in lawlessness.

Opportunity: As the times escalate in intensity, the body of Christ is awakening to the fact that we must work and collaborate. The message and mission of the "Watchman" call is taking shape to ignite the church once again to the import and impact of corporate prayer and community. The three biblical mandates of the "Watchmen" are as follows:

- The Individual Call: Genesis 2:15; Habakkuk 2:1, Matthew 26:40
- The Corporate Call: Nehemiah 4:19-20; Acts 2:1
- The End-time Call: Isaiah 62:1-7; Mat. 25:13, Luke 21; Rev. 16:15

The call to the "Watchmen" is real. It is Jesus who prays, "For Zion's sake I will not hold My peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest," Isaiah 62:1. Jesus last exhortation to man was to "Watch," Matthew 26:40. Given the tumult of the times, the hour is now for this role to once again emerge. As "Watchmen" in churches, communities, and nations connect, His "House of Prayer for All Nations," is truly rising. The ultimate expression of the prophetic words of Amos 9:11, the restoration of the tabernacle of David, is being prepared for Jesus return.

3. Catalyst Calls for Change: The call for watchmen is a call to action. In times of crisis and increasing intensity, God is calling forth a generation that will be catalytic agents in the body of Christ and the prayer movement to be Watchmen in their nations. In the face of tumult, these are men and women who will stand their "Watch" in regions and nations, hear His heart, declare His Word, mobilize, and prepare His people for the times ahead.

Relentless in their calling and intentional in their community and connections, Watchmen are vital in God's end-time plans as He empowers the Church for the end-time harvest and prepares His body to be the bride. As birth pangs increase across the globe, it is vital to be in the counsel of the Lord, hear from Him, and be intentionally related in our neighborhoods and across the nations. God is calling forth champions in the "Watch" who will bridge generations, gender, and culture. Collaborating and connecting with common core values and principles, such cross-cultural and cross-generational interactions are building trust between participating communities, ministries, churches, and networks across the nations.

4. Committed Minority: Our Challenge is greatly blessed by a growing community (family) of watchmen, a committed core, emerging in the nations. Some are coming from large churches and ministries, some from isolated places, small groups, and small churches. All are coming with a heart and desire to build intentional relationships, much like Nehemiah re-built the wall of Jerusalem.
Shedding distractions, they have come with a heart's desire to connect in intentional and meaningful ways. The isolation experienced by many in the church and high levels of cultural spheres is melting away as the message and mission of the watchmen is understood and carried in communities across the nations.

5. Convinced Majority: As Watchmen take their place, we are seeing a miraculous movement of God in communities. The focus on community and committed prayer carries great weight in the spirit. Growing steadily as a family, The Global Watch is now in 61 nations with 12 taking on a national expression. Where local expressions are in place, significant transformational impact is occurring. Vital to the sustaining grace for ongoing prayer/worship is relationship and committed prayer.

A community of the committed core is held together across the nations by "Core Values," an agreed upon statement by which we are held accountable. The core values are vitally important in keeping any sustained group in prayer/ministry healthy. They promote honor, cross-generational validation, and healthy conflict resolution. People are finding atmospheres safe as healthy corporate prayer/church environments are nurtured.

We have been invited to continue a 10-year course of International Watchmen Summits in Herrnhut, Germany. Herrnhut is the site of a "Pentecostal" outpouring of God's Spirit in the early 1700's launching over 100 years of 24/7 prayer and is credited as the birthplace of the modern missions' movement. The seed of Herrnhut is ready and ripe to be sown into the nation.

Herrnhut literally means, "The Lord's Watch." The spiritual DNA there reflects the message of the Celebration Challenge. We will be holding yearly summits to inspire, ignite and empower Watchmen internationally. Collaboration is beginning to strengthen between regions, nations, generations and ministry streams. August 2019 will be our next summit in Herrnhut, Germany. We have also been invited by the KeHilat Ha Carmel congregation and House of Prayer to a Global Watch Summit in Israel, April 2019. Through it all, these events are inspiring and propelling a movement of Watch

Lens#2:1 Arts Sphere: Gilbert Humphreys, Facilitator

Introduction: "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands." Psalm 19:1 unveils the artistic nature of God's creation. God made man and woman in his image and likeness, with an inherent artistic capacity. Creativity has flowed through human veins down the ages leaving us a rich art inheritance from the historical eras and diverse cultures of the world. This model of spiritual-social transformation from the TW2020 Arts Sphere is based on a historical review of the Reformation. The Reformation Movement rooted in the spiritual truth that justification before God is by faith alone transformed not only the artistic landscape of Europe, but also the religious, political, and economic landscape of the time.

1. Crisis in the culture: The conviction is shared by many that the Reformation was the pivotal movement for Christ since the early church. Church Historian Philip Schaff would go so far as to call it the greatest event in history. Economic, religious and political factors set the stage for the Reformation. There was a crisis in the culture of Europe at that time. There were many issues in the different spheres of cultural influence that needed to be addressed.

As instruments of reconciliation Christians in these mountains of influence were being called to pay close attention. There was much that could be done as reconcilers through the Arts.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment: Luther's Ninety-Five Theses spread through Germany within two weeks and throughout Europe in the next two months. "The document catalyzed the Protestant Reformation, a revolutionary movement that resulted in a permanent schism in the Christian Church and radically altered the entire course of history in Western Europe." Dutch culture and the arts experienced a brand-new expression and signaled a kairos moment of challenge and opportunity. A new style developed, birthed from a new-found faith within. This style was much more realistic, giving importance to the individual and everyday people. People were able to relate readier to the familiar subjects on the canvases. The Protestant Reformation revolutionized art. The Protestant reformers influenced artists who became inspired by the new ideas of faith, forgiveness, a personal relationship with God through Jesus Christ, and the powerful stories in the Holy Bible.

3. Catalyst calls for change: One of the best examples of the effects of the Reformation culture on the individual is a famous work by Rembrandt. Though a creature of the Reformation Rembrandt became a catalyst of the Reformation. In his art Rembrandt painted using the realist style with a strong contrast between light and darkness called chiaroscuro, which was typical of the historical school of art to create a somber and dramatic mood. The reformers emphasized the importance of a personal relationship with God, who by His grace grants salvation through faith in Jesus Christ. The message that Jesus died to turn an individual from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, is a key tenet of Protestant theology highlighted in the Apostle Paul's letter to the Galatians 3:13, "Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us." As in few of works Rembrandt captured both the message and the means of personal transformation through Christ in the painting known as the Raising of the Cross. "A ray of light coming from the top of the image illuminates Jesus, whose face is contorted in suffering, displaying His Passion. The beam also makes visible a shovel, reminding the viewer of the grave that awaits Jesus when He dies. The same light also shines on the face of a man in a blue beret, a representation of Rembrandt himself, who lifts the cross with the Roman soldiers, who perhaps represent Rembrandt's assistants. His struggle to raise the cross symbolizes not only a personal struggle to depict this religious and momentous scene, but also his battle against sin as a human being. Rembrandt stands at the foot of the cross and seems to suggest that his sin, like the sin of mankind, put Jesus on the cross and He died to forgive him and grant him salvation." Over the course of the 16th century, the Protestant Reformation dominated northern Europe.

4. Committed Minority arises as the Reformation ideals permeated the fabric of Dutch society with Rembrandt acting as a catalyst though art. A new artistic tradition developed during the 16th century that was not only a product of the Protestant Reformation but also a catalyst in the religious movement that occurred in Western Europe. The sphere of the arts brought about a genuine return to the Scriptures and an appeal to personal faith in Christ leading to a committed core of Christ followers in Northern Europe rooted in the tenets of The Five Solas: 1. Sola Scriptura ("Scripture alone"): The Bible alone is our highest authority. 2. Sola Fide ("faith alone"): We are saved through faith alone in Jesus Christ. 3. Sola Gratia ("grace alone"): We are saved by the grace of God alone. 4. Solus Christus ("Christ alone"): Jesus Christ alone is our Lord, Savior, and King. 5. Soli Deo Gloria ("to the glory of God alone"): We live for the glory of God alone. This reformation product became a transformation propeller. The Reformation transformed not just the religious and political landscape but also the economic and social contours of the day and the geographical contours of Northern Europe.

5. Convinced majority emerges from the early days of the Reformation to the present time with an estimated 560 million Christians from almost every country in the world who we believe are justified before God by faith. The intentional approach regarding the spheres or mountains of influence cultural, was developed by John Calvin as portrayed by Abraham Kuyper. "Luther's starting-point was the special soteriological principle of justifying faith; while Calvin's, extending far wider, lay in the general cosmological principle of the sovereignty of God," in which, under God's sovereign control, there were different rules, tasks, and duties, for the proper functioning of the world. Abraham Kuyper, the Prime Minister of the Netherlands from 1901 to 1905 sought to establish a Christian civilization in every sphere of human society ... such that the family, the church, the sphere of education, the economy, the government remain directly under the authority of Jesus Christ.

Lens#2:2 Business Sphere, John Warton, Facilitator

1. Crisis in the Culture: Unemployment and poverty are major issues with many ramifications in most nations of the world. Even in the United States, every State of the Union address by an American President, from both political parties, includes a pledge to increase employment and wages. Jim Clifton, the Chairman of the Gallop Poll organization, stated in his book, The Coming Jobs War, "The lack of good jobs will become the cause of hunger, extremism, out-of-control migration patterns, reckless environmental trends, widening trade imbalances, and on and on." The concomitant issue of corruption is often rampant among politicians and business people, putting workers and small business owners at risk of extreme poverty and/or being out of business. Both lead to emigration, aka a permanent downgrading of a nation's human resources, limiting the future for generations.

This was seen notably in the Eastern European country of Moldova after the breakup of Soviet Union. Moldova was left in economic isolation, with all the debilitating effects of years under communism. Emigration, with inevitable family breakup, ramped to 20%. Prostitution forced or of necessity, likewise spiked. Moldovans became known for selling their body parts (lungs, kidneys) in Western European countries just to gain some cash.

Egypt has had a similar experience since the Arab Spring. Terrorism provoked by the Muslim Brotherhood has brought an end of tourism, one of the prime businesses in the country. Tour boats along the Nile are tied up. Magnificent historic sites are deserted. Ensuing poverty across the nation is exacerbated by rapid population growth.

Egyptian President Abdel Fatah el-Sisi said at the United Nations: "Egypt has not faced problems of this scale for over 40 years. [We have] striking poverty, unemployment, idleness of the young people. This is fertile soil for problems."

2. Catalytic Kairos Moment: In 1995 the AD2000 & Beyond movement held an inter- national missions conference and invited 6 businessmen from several countries to attend and try to answer the question: "Are there ways business people can help complete the Great Commission aside from giving money to others to do it?" They readily identified many, but helping Christian entrepreneurs start businesses that create jobs was #1. This would provide incomes for families and simultaneously offer natural opportunities for exhibiting Christ-like character, evangelism, discipleship, even church-planting.

In Moldova, a bright, activist college student, Ghenadie Russu, had helped organize a massive protest against their government in the capital city, Chisinau. One day, returning to the demonstrations, he is abducted by plain clothes secret police. In jail he realizes he might easily disappear, and no one would ever know. Though he had rejected the Christian witness of a college friend for many years, now he turned to Jesus. He was released and continued his studies in economics, and soon met Todd Engelson, an American businessman with a heart for wholistic mission. Todd gave him $10,000 USD to begin a micro-finance agency, CAMED, through the Baptist Union in Moldova.

3. Catalyst Calls for Change: Valeriu Ghiletchi was the presiding Bishop of the 600-church Baptist Union in Moldova. Valeriu became an advocate for job creation in the churches, and later when he won a seat in Parliament, championed this answer to their national crisis. The unconverted mayor of the town first benefiting from CAMED wept in gratitude for the effects there; now the government wants Mr. Russu to lead a national program. Other political leaders have made similar calls. Rwandan President Paul Kagame instituted a 0% tolerance for corruption in government and business, with severe penalties for violations and a personal commitment to that himself. Business development organizations in Rwanda like Vision Finance and These Numbers Have Faces find this environment quite conducive to business start-ups. International missions' leader, Dr. Ted Yamamori has called business as mission "the strategy of choice for 21st century missions."

4. Committed Minority: A dramatic shift has occurred in the R&D agencies from focusing on relief to development. Micro-finance agencies have proliferated, some more committed to including the Gospel than others. Even mainline mission agencies now include business as mission – not phony businesses erected simply to enter closed countries but doing no real business – but business incubators and multi-national companies with Christian leadership. Marketplace Ministries now teach Biblical values for the marketplace, as well as evangelizing and discipling. All three of the international missions' movements include business initiatives in their efforts to fulfill the Great Commission

5. Convinced Majority: The marketplace is where most of the Church devotes most of their time, and perhaps next to parenting, demonstrates most who they are by their education, skills, training, and temperament. But the ministry call to use their business resources to counter poverty and spread the Gospel has yet to be widely adopted.

Lens#2:3 Church Sphere, Jack Eggar, Facilitator

1. Crisis in the culture: With the world moving quickly toward the consummation of the ages, the church of Jesus Christ finds itself in the God ordained position of influence. Jesus himself described his people as 'salt of the earth' and 'light of the world'. This apply describes both our state of being and how the world itself might see those who reflect the person of Christ through their faith journey. Now is the time for the church in Ethiopia, Africa, and the world to rise to become the feet, hands, and voices of Jesus.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment of challenge and opportunity: As people throughout the world contend with increasing instability, overcrowding, and chaos, countless millions will find themselves searching for hope and this is the Kairos moment for the church of Jesus Christ. Now is the time for the church to shine as never before. The key to evangelizing Ethiopia, the surrounding nations, Africa, and the whole world is a revived church. A revived church begins with God's people recognizing their identity in Christ and the mission they have been called to fulfill.

3. Catalyst calls for change: The church founded by Jesus himself 2,000 years ago must rediscover the purpose for which it was brought into existence. In 2 Corinthians 5:20, the apostle Paul describes the role of believers as 'ambassadors through whom God is making his appeal to humanity, "Be reconciled to God". As kingdom representatives, Christians are to rediscover their high calling as royal ambassadors and then reaffirm the mission of every church which is to MAKE DISCIPLES. In a most practical way, church leaders throughout the world must strategically rearrange their approach to the community. While many church leaders continue to see themselves as keepers of the keys with the weekly task of unlocking and locking doors to church buildings, a fresh wind is blowing among young spiritual leaders that do not want to see the church any longer as a magnet that attracts attendees for an hour or two each week. Rather, they see themselves as bold captains over a church family tasked to accomplish two directives; 1) Prepare God's people for spiritual battle and 2) Personally lead them into spiritual battle. A transformed church in the outward focused position Jesus intended will most certainly permeate its community. They are truly becoming salt and light to those without hope.

4. Committed Minority arises: Transform World 2020 is catalytic in calling the church to seize this last days' opportunity the Lord has providentially set before it. In writing to the believers in Corinth, Paul stated that, "…a great door for effective work has opened for me, and there are many that oppose me". As always, those willing to step out in faith in response to God's calling will find plenty of distractors. The cost is high, but the opportunity is great and not to be ignored. Rise up you spiritual shepherds of Christ's church and see yourselves also as captains fulfilling the Ephesians 4 commission to prepare God's people for the work of the ministry.

5. Convinced majority: The many denominational and pastoral participants in the Transform 2020 movement have a calling to show most church leaders the way. The church must be awakened. It must arise to its final calling before the great and terrible day of the Lord. It is most providential that this year's Summit is in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia where from one of the earliest seedbeds of Christianity comes the compelling call to the global church. Arise and become again the mighty church of Jesus Christ.

Lens#2:4 Education Sphere: Yonggyu Lee, Facilitator

The story of Jakarta International University project is a relevant example of how a committed core minority of servants of God can cause an initiative to become a breakthrough to overcome the current challenges in mission and education. Acting as a catalyst in a Kairos moment of challenge and opportunity, in response to a crisis in the culture, this memo shows how this has taken place in relation to the Education Sphere in Indonesia. This memo utilized the five-step model of transformation by Arnold Toynbee as a format.

1. Crisis in the Culture: Indonesia is becoming more important in global missions. While Indonesia has the greatest Muslim population in the world, it also has a secular democratic government system. It can serve as a mission hub for Southeast Asia and South Asia and a stepping stone for missions to the Islamic world. The church is exponentially growing in the mega cities such as Jakarta, but the Christian ratio in rural areas are showing rapid decline. The Indonesian society has become more Muslim friendly and the voice of Islam became louder than ever in the history of modern Indonesia.

Christian schools have traditionally played important roles in raising Christian leaders and influencing students from different religious backgrounds. We found that one of the most important reasons that there is a high percentage of Christians among Chinese Indonesians was mainly thanks to the fact that Christian schools had offered better educational opportunities. We met many Indonesian Christian leaders who attribute Christian education as the starting point of their faith. However, a new challenge has risen in Christian education in Indonesia.

2. Catalytic Crisis Moment: At the Transform World Summit 2012, Bali, Iman Santoso, one of the steering committee members of Transform World, emphasized the current challenge in Christian education in Indonesia. Most of the Christian schools in the Christian pocket areas where Christians dwell in high numbers were in degenerated conditions.

Many of them were destined to be forced to close by 2014 due to new regulations that raised the standards for teacher qualification. The regions where the great revival of 1965 had swept across started to show rapid decline in the number of Christian population and the social welfare index. Due to the financial difficulty of Christian schools and the impoverished socio-economic condition in those Christian areas, the schools could not recruit qualified Christian teachers while the teachers with no college graduation certificates were forced to leave the schools. Whereas the Islamic schools boomed to grow in drastic numbers, Christian schools were closing. Indonesian Christian families are losing their children in Islamic schools that could provide free tuition and other incentives.

3. Catalyst Calls for Change: Yonggyu Lee received a call from the Lord to serve in Indonesia for education mission after leaving from Mongolia where he had served in Mongolia International University. After being invited by a Korean Church in Jakarta to establish a university for mission purpose, he started to build one team to establish an educational complex which would accommodate various educational institutions that could cover from kindergarten to university levels of education. Our team planned to found institutions that would provide education based on the Christian perspective throughout all generations at an affordable cost. We saw that Indonesia was in desperate need of fresh passion for enhancing the level of Christian education and a new model for Christian schools and a missional university.

The obstacles in establishing educational institutions were great. Few people believed that this kind of mission could be possible in Indonesia. The risk factors were too high. Indonesia keeps high restrictions against foreigners operating a school unless it is an international school. An international school is not a suitable option because it is too costly to make it a movement across Indonesia.

Funding was another problem. It was evident that few donors would be interested in funding for this highly risky project. We could not rely on one large church in Korea. Korean churches were losing their motivation and passion for foreign mission. Funding for such a large- scale project did not seem possible.

4. Committed Minority: Yonggyu Lee called for a team of a committed minority. Our team had to plan to develop a Christian curriculum and system fitting the Indonesian educational setting and the local education laws and regulations. Cornerstone Global Academy started in December 2014. It used the Society of Toxicology (SOT) curriculum whose textbooks are in English. We had no expectation that it could be licensed by the Ministry of Education of Indonesia. God opened the door for us to combine the SOT curriculum and the new Indonesian education system. In a Kairos moment a new regulation regarding "Christian religion school" was enacted. There are around 90,000 traditional Islamic schools called pesantrin in Indonesia. To meet the principle of equality among the recognized religions, the government decided to allow Christians to open "Christian religion schools" in the fashion of pesantrin, following the Islamic educational model. Our school applied for the license for the religion school and was approved by the government even though the school uses an American Christian curriculum in English. This approval helped our team operate in a secure and stable environment. The first graduate of the school will graduate this coming December and was accepted by Handong Global University with full scholarship. We plan to utilize on-line education because we hope to make many branch campuses and share the model of our schools to take part in raising the next generation in Indonesia in a Godly way.

Along the way, our team continuously worked to establish a university. We became convicted that a mission-minded university can serve an important platform for Christian mission. It works as an effective instrument for Muslim evangelization. Dormitory and job opportunities can detach the students from the influence of their former communities and give them the freedom to explore new ideas and new faith. We design to accommodate all our students in the dormitory. This will provide us a suitable environment to disciple Christian students and to evangelize students from different religious backgrounds. In this way, the new university would serve as a counterbalance to the current situation in which many Christian university students are losing their faith while attending Islamic universities or even state universities because of the lure of scholarships or job opportunity.

5. Convinced Majority: God prepared a way in advance. Well-educated and equipped servants gathered together for building a Christian campus in Indonesia. They gave up their high careers and joined our team. God also stirred the hearts of Korean diaspora Christian businessmen to find me and support the project. Their faithful commitments made this project financially possible. Regular small gift commitment of ordinary Korean Christian families helped this project stabilize. The first building on the land plot of 5 hectares (12.5 acres) in a new suburban city of Jakarta was built in the year of 2017. We are launching the second building project November 2018.

The Lord showed us what He had prepared in the government level. The government started to recognize our plan. The first two colleges were approved, and we recruited our first batch of students in the summer of 2018. The government officers suggest us to initiate a university by combining the two colleges within four years. Because our two colleges use English as the main language and make the campus multicultural by inviting foreign students, our school model appealed greatly to the government officers who looked for ways to enhance the quality of education in universities and invite more foreign students to Indonesian universities under the new policy of the government in relation to higher education.

Lens#2:5 Family Sphere: Chris Hogan, Facilitator

1. Crisis in the Culture: In exploring the cultural challenges of the day with a global perspective the need of the family is preeminent.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment: It's a time of great need and opportunity for families in our world to become agents of healing and blessing to the families in their communities.

3. Catalyst Families call for change: A catalyst family is intentional in their love for God and one another. They are focused on seeking first the Kingdom of God. They are experiencing the joy of being in His presence and in right relationship with one another. They seek to enlist a team who can start praying and discerning current realities, develop trust, openness in conversation, clarity in agreement, and strategy for implementing change. They engage in collaborating conversations.

4. Committed Minority: Catalyst families gather together to form a committed minority team. Becoming Catalyst Families by being reconciled, rooted and released. Catalyst families become reconciled when they become aware of their lack of peace, joy, and hope. They recognize their need for God's presence. The humble themselves and ask forgiveness of God and one another. They change their mind about the way they are living and choose God's way for life. They commit to showing up meaningfully for one another. They celebrate the goodness of God with thanksgiving. Catalyst families become rooted when they develop the family altar, the family vision, family conversations, family communion and experience family blessing and the peace of God. Catalyst families become released and missional when they develop their home as an embassy for God's Kingdom as a place of worship, a place of learning, a place of hospitality, a place of health and healing and a place of productivity. A Catalyst Family becomes missional when their members are sensitive to the Spirit of God and move by the leading of the Holy Spirit. They live out God's life in the home. God does not want ministry to be separated by what is happening in the home. Missional families take what is happening in the home and bring it out into the world. They reveal to the world what true worship looks like, they manifest the image of God to others, they are nurturing, affectionate and attraction as they follow God.

5. Convinced Majority: Catalyst families grow into a convinced majority community which becomes a place of health and healing and productivity, experiencing God's power in their midst. They are empowered to act locally. They are equipped by God with wisdom and skills to address challenges creatively. They engage in courageous conversations.

Lens#2:6 Government Sphere: Art Lindsley, Facilitator

1. Crisis in the culture: Many countries struggle with lack of freedom in various ways. Many also struggle with desperate poverty. There is a need for help to overcome these obstacles.

2. Catalytic/Kairos moment of challenge and opportunity: Now is the time when a variety of doors are open because many leaders in these countries feel the need for something new. Doors are opening in the government sphere in the USA, in Latin America, and Africa.

3. Catalyst calls for change: Particularly through relationship with Hal Jones and the Geneva Institute for Leadership and Public Policy as well as Ricardo Luna from CONEL opportunities are arising to speak to government leaders throughout the world.

4. Committed minority: We have held conferences in Uganda (with parliamentarians) and in Bolivia (with church and government leaders). We will soon be speaking for three days to state government in Nigeria and to government and church leaders in Ethiopia.

5. Convinced majority: Plans are being made for several conferences for government leaders in Latin America and additional conferences in Africa next year. There is a growing movement of leaders committed to solid and biblically founded principles for governing. A nation cannot flourish unless it has political, economic, and religious freedom. This needs to be solidly grounded in moral education and the formation of character.

Lens#2:7 Media Sphere: LaReau Anderson, Facilitator

Introduction: The power of media platforms, and access to information today is nothing short of breathtaking. In the last 100+ years the world has gone from communicating through letters, paper and print, storytelling, etc., and, travel that would often take weeks or months. Many of us now have days in our lives where we travel more in one day than our grandparents did their entire lives. In our hyper fast world today, through the internet, virtually everywhere in the world has access to 'real time' information. We can hop on a plane and be on the other side of the globe in hours. Welcome to the new world!

In our generation the world has suddenly become much smaller. It has changed our lives in so many positive (this may be debatable) ways, in virtually every area and sector of society. Anything we want to see, learn about and experience is now just a click away, whether you are in Chicago, Nairobi, Cairo, or Bangalore. The world is now connected like never before, and media is at its core.

1. Crisis in the Culture—However, there is also a great crisis facing the church today as it relates to the ease of access and content of multiple media platforms. This crisis is a daily and hourly threat to our children and young people through the powerful impact of media options. For example, in recent years, the ease of access for children and young people to be pulled into pornography and other spiritual traps through these emerging media platforms has reached epidemic levels. There is not one 15-year old boy, or girl in the North American context that is not exposed to pornography almost on a daily basis though smartphones, tablets, and other media platforms. As the access to internet continues to grow globally, it's safe to say that this is not just a North American issue, but a global issue for our children and young people. Globally, more than four billion people (most are young) are connected via internet. In Africa more than 450 million have internet access and growing. This must be overwhelming to the church! How can the church address these issues, and respond with compassion and spiritual direction?

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment of Challenge and Opportunity—This new access to information is one of the great Kairos moments for the church today. In an instant, people all over the world now have access to God's Word. Strategies using effective media and technology sharing will realize all languages being translated into God's Word in the next few years. The ease of communication and advancement, and emerging new technologies brings the entire world to our hands. These technologies result in literally billions of downloads of Bibles and other resources for the church every year. In the last five years alone, portions of just the NIV English Bible translation have been downloaded over 15 billion times. Media also thrives in restricted areas. A quick glace of the city landscapes of Cairo, Beijing, Tehran, and many other 'closed' cities reveals an endless landscape of satellite dishes. Nothing is going to stop this innate human desire to be connected.

3. Catalyst Calls for Change—The Transform World Media Sphere wants to continue to engage with and encourage ministries using media to further God's Kingdom. Yes, there's a dark and evil side to the media, but it's also a power tool to communicate the Good News of Jesus to a needy world. Another result of this new media available is in the area of literacy. Many media platforms can encourage and communicate in ways where traditional print is not able. Groups such as Faith Comes by Hearing, MegaVoice, Jesus Film and many others have created great resources and models to reach people through engaging not-print resources. Effective media grabs the hearts, ears, eyes…it's not just print anymore, it's all.

4. Committed Minority Arises—There has been dramatic progress in the use of creative and new media alternatives to reach people all around the world. Groups such as Christian Broadcasting Network (CBN) have created high-quality Bible animations for children that are broadcast in many countries and languages across the globe. CBN brings God's Word to children and families in powerful engaging ways. However large or small the ministry, those being called by God to use media have a great impact on God's Kingdom. We must continue to enable, fund and encourage those called to develop these resources, especially young people.

5. Convinced Majority—The Transform World Media Sphere will continue to encourage ministries, and the church globally to use media in constructive and engaging ways. There needs to be much more content developed and implemented that gives our children and those in the church good alternatives to the dark-side and evil we see manifested in so many media platforms. We also want to encourage the church to be wise and enabled to address the very complex issues surrounding the many media platforms, and the influence they are having on our children and youth around the world.

Lens #3: Generations/Children--Ethiopian Model 4/14 Window

Introduction: Africa shines a bright light of how a faithful committed core minority of servants of God in a nation, when acting as a catalyst in a Kairos moment of challenge and opportunity in response to a crisis in the culture as has taken place in Ethiopia.

Background: The Ethiopian Model of Spiritual Social Transformation from Challenge Response of Transform World 2020 (TW2020) to Children was shaped by a cultural crisis that illustrated the many ways how the body of Christ in a country can bring about a change in culture in a nation as in…

- How the Ethiopian Church responded to the Marxist takeover in 1974 with all 11 major denominations coming together in unity and persevering in that unity 35 years is an example to the rest of the body of Christ.
- How the great wave of violent persecution that followed until 1991 was transformed from an insurmountable barrier to the gospel (that threatened to destroy the Church), resulting in the purifying of the Church instead.
- How cell group multiplication and house churches developed leadership throughout the church with the teaching of the priesthood of every believer.
- How the church grew not only in quantity and quality. By 1997 the Christian population exceeded eight million people which has multiplied in the last twenty years with over twenty million Christians to date, which is almost 20% of the total population, but also in quality. The Ethiopian Church has also become a model of a growing healthy church.

- How the study of the Scriptures and understanding that each believer was to live a prophetic life has exerted transformational impact on society in every domain and sphere of society these believers found themselves in.
- How the church grew in unity. The ECFE represented the Christian community as one family in a participator manner. It inculcated a sense of belonging and spirit of ownership. The potential of synergistic effect as the body of Christ in the nation became increasingly evident. The fact that, not only the various streams of the church and highest levels of government have embraced and engaged in this mission but even the general populace of the country makes this a compelling example of spiritual-social transformation based on the following five challenge-response factors that created the dynamic of spiritual-social transformation in Ethiopia.

1. Crisis in the culture: The communist regime that came into power in 1974 banned all evangelical practices. Suffering together for the sake of righteousness these Christians became a living testimony to the crucified Lord.

By 2004 eight issues were identified as the threats to the very existence of Ethiopia as a nation by the church leaders:

(1). environmental degradation,
(2). ethnic conflict/tribalism,
(3). low level of democratic culture,
(4). poverty,
(5). lack of good governance not only in the government but also in the church,
(6). low level of appreciation and understanding of human and children's rights,
(7). poor hygiene and sanitation, and
(8). fanaticism in some religions.

2. Catalytic / Kairos Moment: Seeing the threat to the people of Ethiopia, servant leaders of the Body of Christ in the country now unified Christ-followers took counsel together, as the elders of the church did in Acts 12, in the Church Council in April 2004, for three days of prayer and reflection on the role of the body of Christ in addressing the challenges of Ethiopia.

3.Catalyst calls for change: The elders of the church of Ethiopia explored opportunities within the Church and through the Church as the Body of Christ, to be God's agent to bless the nation, concluding, upon carefully examining the threats facing the church in Ethiopia, that the Church is called to be the solution in the nation but also children as solution. They considered "what is that in your hand?" (Ex 4:2) and realized it was their own children, called to become agents of Ethiopia's transformation: Children as solution. The basis for the historic moves of ECFE on Children came from repeated presentations were prayerfully, strategically and patiently made to our church leaders Next Generation Engagement and Development. They realized not only that children's ministry, building healthy families, is one of the most strategic ways to build the church but also to bless the society. They have written and embraced a covenant on ministry to children with no less than 60 different provisions.

4. Committed Minority arises out of open discussion, commitment, trust, attention to results and accountability which are the essential qualities. This committed minority in Ethiopia recognized the importance of strengthening families and community services that would help vulnerable children remain in their families, be reunited with their families, or regain safe, stable and permanent families, so that they could reach their God-given purpose. The ECFE made three historic and monumental decisions on caring for, ministry to, for and with children (4/14) and raising up a new generation form the 4/14 Window to transform Ethiopia: 1) The Covenant on Ministry to Children (March 2001) 2) The church to participate in social transformation and 3) The establishment of the CDTRC to spearhead the effort of the church in raising up a new generation from the 4/14 Window (April 2004).

5. Convinced majority of a Unified Church: Recognizing the Ethiopian Evangelical Churches' awareness on the importance of children and their augmented commitment for child ministry; the strategic initiatives such as "The Covenant of the Ministry to Children," The Child Development Training and Research Center and the strategic potential of the Ethiopian Evangelical Church, representatives of 28 out of the 31 member evangelical denominations of the Evangelical Churches Fellowship of Ethiopia (ECFE) participated with joyous unity, the existence of supportive and resourceful para-church organizations; and the encouraging steps the Ethiopian government is taking regarding children issues. The ECFE Fellowship has currently a constituency of an estimated 18% (13 million) of the population of Ethiopia.

The Fellowship has established a strong link with many partner alliances and is working with government and non-government organizations in different endeavors in various parts of the country.

Conclusion: The leadership prayed for a God-fearing new leader for the country and believe God answered their prayer. Ethiopia hails its charismatic young leader as a peacemaker who recently said: "The Good Book says, "Blessed are the peacemakers." It is a maxim that aims to guide those who seek to deliver the message of peace and reconciliation to humanity. It is a message that teaches true peace is found between individuals or nations by restoring broken relationships in a reconciliation process." "What I want to tell the people of Egypt is that we Ethiopians know the value of spirit of brotherhood and neighborhood and we are God-fearing people, and we will never harm the people of Egypt." The Good Book also says, "There is no peace for the wicked." There is no peace for those who seek to impose peace-at-the-barrel-of-the-gun, commit aggression or seek to maintain a state of no-peace-no-war. "With the government of Eritrea, we want from the bottom of our hearts that the disagreement that has reigned for years comes to an end. We would also discharge our responsibility."[2]
